

Officina — design Ronan & Erwan Bouroullec, 2017

Italian design and traditional craftsmanship are harmoniously combined in the Magis Officina collection, which explores a new creative language through the ancient fabrication process that is iron forging. Throughout history, this technique has been used to create an infinite number of everyday objects and decorative artefacts. The products in this collection feature a typical wrought iron finish that makes them living design objects, and their distinctly industrial feel is guaranteed to create interesting contrasts in any setting. Following the tables, chairs and stools, the collection expands further with a series of accessories, with a low chair, with a two-seater bench and a collection of upholstered pieces (armchair, ottoman, two and three-seater sofas). All these pieces feature a forged iron structure, with the allure of a raw material handed down through the centuries, alive, with those slight imperfections that make each item in this collection unique, with a profoundly refined and elegant spirit.

Designers

Ronan & Erwan Bouroullec

Ronan and Erwan Bouroullec have been working together for about ten years now. Their collaboration is a permanent dialogue, nourished by their distinct personalities and a shared notion of diligence, with the intention to achieve greater balance and refinement. The Bouroullecs have been working with Magis since 2004, designing two complete furniture collections as well as other projects. These days, Ronan and Erwan Bouroullec design for numerous manufacturers and they also continue to carry out their own experimental activity which is essential to the development of their work at Galerie Kreo, Paris, where four exhibitions of their designs were held between 2001 and 2012. They also embark on occasional architectural projects.
